Knox Warns Triple Powers Axis U. S. Not Be Intimidated

Orders 27,591 Reservists Into Their Uniforms

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—(AP)—Secretary Knox ordered 27,591 navy and marine reservists into uniform today after pointedly warning the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo axis that "if a fight is forced upon us we shall be ready."

The order applied to the entire organized and fleet reserves of the navy and marine corps. It will swell to 239,281 the number of officers and men on active duty, giving the seagoing forces a strength in personnel they have not possessed since the post-World War period.

Shortly before he issued his order, the naval secretary said unequivocally in an address to graduates of the National Police Academy that the Japanese-German-Italian alliance "is directed at us," and that the United States would not be "intimidated." His remarks were widely interpreted as an administration reply to yesterday's assertion by Prince Konoye, the Japanese Premier, that any challenge of the Rome-Berlin axis would tumble the United States "into a fight to a finish."

"We are the largest obstacle in the path of the totalitarian powers," Knox said. "Should Great Britain fail to stem the tide of ever advancing tyranny, we shall find ourselves surrounded by these international brigands, whose greatest victory would be the destruction of the United States.

"Ready If Fight Forced"

"Never understanding us they suppose our people can be brought under their iron rule. Both as an American and as an official of the navy I know differently. If a fight is forced upon us we shall be ready for them. We have never lost a war yet."

Just back from an inspection of the fleet, Hawaiian and west coast defenses, Knox asserted that the American sea force was the "most powerful, most efficient fleet in the world today, fully capable of upholding the American tradition of victory at sea, which has done so much to establish and continue us as a free people."

Asserting that "Our mode of life has never been so challenged as it now is," Knox said that under the circumstances an adequate navy "demands that we be able to meet enemies far from our own shores and defeat them in both oceans — simultaneously if necessary."

"The conquest of Europe and the possible successful invasion of

GOP Rally On Saturday Night Attracts Crowd

Edward Scheuffler And George Miller Give Addresses

The Pettis County Republican Central Committee Saturday night opened their fall campaign officially in Sedalia with a rally staged in the circuit court room of the court house, attended by several hundred persons. Edward Scheuffler, of Kansas City, chairman of the Jackson County committee and George Miller, prosecuting attorney of Hickory county and also candidate for state senator from the fifteenth district, were the principal speakers.

The meeting, according to Republican leaders, was the largest the Republican party has had for an opening rally in Sedalia in many years. They estimated the crowd, which overflowed into the halls, at more than 500 persons.

Judge Jacob E. Smith, of the probate court, presided and introduced the speakers and all of the Republican county candidates.

Mr. Scheuffler was the first speaker on the program. He spoke on the history of Wendell L. Willkie, Republican candidate for president of the United States. He told of his childhood, of his advancement through life. He told of Willkie's first visit to Missouri and to Kansas City, of how he arrived in that city riding the "rods" and of his return to that place a few weeks ago as a candidate for president.

In his talk he told of Willkie enlisting in the United States army during the World war and of working his way up through the ranks to become a commissioned officer.

Asks Work For Party

Mr. Scheuffler also spoke on "machine politics" and reverted his talk to organization, locally, state and nationally. "Each individual should work for his party and it is these efforts that count", he stated.

Following his address the candidates were introduced and Mr Miller then was called upon to make an address.

Mr. Miller in part said: "Six years ago the people of the state of Missouri voted that our deserv-

A musical program precedes the meetings by a string orchestra.

The schedule is as follows: Monday at Maple Grove school; Tuesday, Lookcut school; Wednesday, Fristoe school; Thursday, Hughesville high school; and Friday, Elder Ridge school.

Monday night John Z. Montgomery, Sedalia city attorney, will be the principal speaker.

The meetings begin at 8 o'clock in the evening.

Chairman Harlan announced several prominent speakers of state reputation are coming to Sedalia and meetings will also be held with the principal speakers coming to Sedalia from the National Democratic committee.

GOP Women To Meet On Tuesday

The Republican Women's club will hold a meeting at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the assembly room of the court house.

The meeting will be called to order by the president, Miss Hazel Palmer. Following which there will be the salute to the flag and a group singing of "God Bless America."

An address will be given by Attorney Earl Crawford on "Out of Confusion, Chaos.

Mrs. Stuart King will speak on "What is Trend of Third Term."

George R. Wilkerson will talk on "Why I Am For Willkie."

All women are invited to attend this meeting.

Orders Not To Be Harsh On Trainees

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—(AP)—Instructions went out to army posts today to use the guard house as sparingly as possible when disciplining the men soon to be drafted for mass training.

Major General Leslie J. McNair, general headquarters chief of staff, said that all means should be used to avoid absenting men from training designed to harden and season them.

Free Schools As Bulwark Of Democracy

President In Address Extols Such Opportunity

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 5—(AP)—Calling for improvement and simplification of local government, President Roosevelt told a rally of Democrats in his home county tonight that "overstatement, personal attacks and wild promises have no part in our county campaign—any more than in a national campaign."

"I am very certain that realizing this, you will conduct it on the highest possible level of American ethics and decency," he said. "May your efforts be understood and approved by the voters next November."

In the second avowedly political speech since his nomination for a third term, Mr. Roosevelt dealt primarily with local politics, without mentioning specific issues or personalities.

But in the afternoon he had driven Hardy Steeholm, Democratic candidate for Congress from his own district, to the dedication of three new schools near Hyde Park. Steeholm, for whom the chief executive had said he would vote, is trying to unseat Rep. Hamilton Fish, ranking Republican member of the influential House Rules and Foreign Affairs committees, and a frequent critic of the New Deal.

Extols Free Education

Hundreds of his neighbors, half of them school children, heard the chief executive extol the American system of free education as a means of preserving democracy in an address in front of a new high school named for him.

Dictators, he said, had stamped out freedom of learning because "tyranny hates and fears nothing more than the free exchange of ideas, the free play of the mind that comes from education."

The three new Dutchess county schools, for which PWA supplied part of the $1,300,000 outlay, and other American schools, Mr. Roosevelt said, would train the nation's youth—"not for enforced labor camps or for regimentation as an enslaved citizenry, but for the intelligent exercise of the right of suffrage, and for participation as free human beings in the life of the nation."

Then, speaking a few hours later by radio from his Hyde Park home to an annual dinner sponsored by the Dutchess county Democratic committee in nearby Poughkeepsie, the president said he hoped the exercise of right of suffrage locally would bring Democratic victories in the Nov. election.

"I trust," he said, "that in the coming campaign the Democratic candidates for office will stress not so much their Democracy as they will their belief that they can give more efficient and hon-

Funds Short To Pay in Full

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 5.—(AP)—State Auditor Forrest Smith said today there was not sufficient money on hand to pay all of Missouri's October old age pensions, held up in the absence of federal funds.

The government has withheld its dollar for dollar matching funds from the month's pensions because of a legal controversy over efforts to install a merit system of employment in the social security commission.

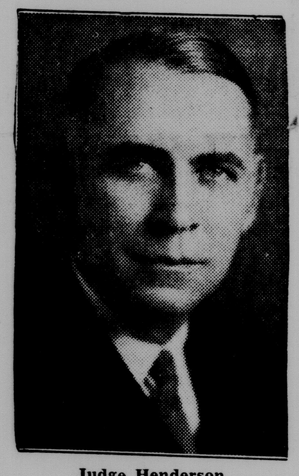

Social security administrator George I. Haworth asked Smith to release funds for the full pension payment in the absence of the federal money but Smith said today the state treasury was nearly $200,000 short of the $1,500,000 needed to make the payment.

Novel Show In The Campaign

Democrats Will Present It Free Monday, Oct. 21

The Pettis County Democratic Central committee on Monday, October 21 will go streamline in political campaign technique, when they will present the "Victory Swing Show" at the Smith-Cotton high school. The novel show is headed by Judge Mitchel J. Henderson, judge of the Jackson County Probate Court, who will be the principal speaker.

Two years ago Judge Henderson along with Joseph S. Chick conceived the idea of modernizing political campaigns in Missouri by giving an entertainment along the political issue combined with a political address of not more than thirty minutes, the latter to be presented by Judge Henderson. The "Victory Swing Swing Show" was organized and the troop traveled throughout Missouri campaigning for the Democratic party.

Judge Henderson

Such success was met with the idea the gentlemen decided to carry on and between campaigns the show is presented to the various Democratic club meetings, and is always ready for a campaign. This year the show has been presented in several places and through the Pettis county committee it has been obtained for a presentation in Sedalia.

The novel part of the entire program is that it is free to the public, no collections are made at the meeting, and no cost to

Dies Suddenly In Automobile

Father of Joda Kincaid Bought Land of Indians

(Special to The Democrat-Capital)

WARSAW, Mo., Oct. 5.—Joda Kinkaid, 59, member of one of this community's pioneer families, died suddenly here late this afternoon in a car on a main street, shortly after complaining of feeling ill. Death was due to heart attack, it was said.

The streets were crowded with many persons attending the Half Century club celebration, being held today and Sunday, and Mr. Kinkaid and 17 other members of his family had had a picnic dinner on the courthouse lawn early in the afternoon. After going to the community hall to register for the celebration, Mr. Kinkaid was walking down the street with members of his family and told his niece, Mrs. Raymond Gregory, of Warsaw that he was not feeling well.

He was taken to the car of a relative and died about 4:20 o'clock. With him at the time of his death were his wife and Mrs. Robert Kinkaid, of Milo. He had been in ill health for sometime and returned only a month ago after he and his wife had spent the summer in Grand Junction, Colo.

Land From Indians

He was born on April 7, 1881, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kinkaid of Warsaw. His father bought the Kinkaid homestead land, located about five miles west of Warsaw, from the Indians, and his mother was the first white child born in Warsaw.

On March 7, 1909, Joda Kinkaid married Miss Irma Cromb of Warsaw. With Mrs. Kinkaid, their two children survive: a daughter, Mrs. Wilma Peck of Grand Junction, Colo., and a son, Estel Kinkaid of Warsaw. Also surviving are two brothers, Albert Kinkaid, Warsaw, and Robert Kinkaid, Milo.

The body was taken to the White-Reser Funeral Home. Arrangements for services have not been made pending word from the daughter in Colorado.

Willkie Asks Protection Of Civil Liberties

Is Bitter Over A 'Whispering Campaign' Waged

By WILLIAM B. ARDERY

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie told a cheering Brooklyn audience tonight that "any man, no matter how high his position, who impungs the completeness of my patriotism is a coward and a cur."

"I understand there has been a whispering campaign against me because one of my parents was born abroad," the Republican presidential nominee declared, adding:

"I tell all of you that I denounce such base, such cowardly insinuations. I want you to vote for me on the basis of what I represent and advocate and not on the basis of a whispering campaign and not on the public statements of any official, no matter how high, that he would do more than Wendell Willkie would to defend American Democracy."

For Civil Liberties

Speaking in a Brooklyn high school auditorium, the Republican presidential nominee appealed for the protection of civil liberties and said they should be guarded "without prejudice from any source."

He asserted that in setting up any governmental machinery which deprives "those you hate of their rights, you are setting up machinery which tomorrow will deprive those you love of their rights."

Saying he wanted to keep the country "completely tolerant of the various groups within it," the candidate added that unless this was done Democracy would pass away.

"In the changing cycle of public opinion those who are popular today are unpopular tomorrow," he said.

"If we cannot keep this country completely tolerant in its viewpoint of the different groups within it, then this precious way of life will pass."

The crowd inside Edward B. Shallow high school, the first of five stops by Willkie in a whirlwind speaking tour of Brooklyn, Democratic stronghold, gave the candidate a loud ovation.

Willkie began by saying that if in this campaign he had been seeking only applause he would not have asked to visit Democratic sectors.

Was Not Captain

Willkie mentioned that he had served in the World War, and some one in the crowd asked, "You wern't made a captain, were you?"

"No," said Willkie, "I was recommended for a captaincy but it was after two years of work."

In Erasmus Hall high school, Willkie told an applauding audience that Henry Wallace, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, and Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York had referred to the wishes "of the dictators re-

Threat of New Blows Made Against Britain

Declared Winter Bring No Breaking Spell for England

BERLIN, Oct. 6.—(Sunday)—(AP)—The German short wave radio broadcast early today that "maybe" waves of German bombers now flying toward England would be followed "soon" by hundreds of thousands of troops now standing ready.

BERLIN, Oct. 5—(AP)—Germany and Italy are making ready to strike new blows at Britain in some especially "vulnerable spot," Nazi informants indicated today amid a great deal of talk that the eastern Mediterranean may now become a decisive battleground.

Emphasized was the notion that Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini had reached momentous war decisions in the Brenner Pass yesterday and that soon they would act.

It was a meeting, said one authorized person, whose subject was not peace but victory—a "war and diplomatic council."

"England," he observed, "is vulnerable in many places. And it certainly will be struck somewhere. Naturally, we cannot tell you where."

This suggestion was echoed in the Hamburger Fremdenblatt, whose Berlin correspondent is much at home in the foreign office.

Saying that winter would bring no breathing spell to England, the Fremdenblatt declared the new German-Italian-Japanese alliance had "created the political pre-conditions for pursuing the war against England on all fronts."

Speed Valuable Weapon

"Speed and surprise," the paper pursued, "have been the most valuable weapons of our martial art. England is again exposed to the painfully necessity of groping in

Red Cross Work Rooms Are Busy

There was good attendance Thursday and Friday in the Red Cross workrooms where surgical dressings for war victims are being made.

Miss Agnes Quin, chairman, was pleased with the interest shown and hopes that volunteer workers will continue giving their services. The schedule for Friday will be from 1:30 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon, rather than in the morning as previously announced. Workers will meet again on Tuesday morning.

Saturday morning a large group of Girl Scouts, who are serving as volunteers, made bandages in the workrooms.

There is still need for more volunteer knitters to help in the making of sweaters for the war victims. A quota of 350 has been assigned to the Pettis county chapter of the Red Cross, and work already has started. All who can are urged to assist with the knitting. Mrs. Harold Dean and Mrs. J. C. British Sea Power Vs. Nazi Air Power Still Unsettled

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Thirteen months of up-to-date war in Europe, with Nazi blitzkrieg trimmings, leaves the question of British sea versus German air power unsettled; but has not changed a fundamental concept of how land battles are fought and won.

It is still bayonets that win battles not machines. That is the essence of German blitzkrieg technique, of all military experience. The function of all other arms, from Roman chariots to 80-ton Nazi tanks, from rock-hurling catapults to bomb-dropping planes, is to help the foot-soldiery do its grim job.

The only miracle referred to by German experts in recounting the stunning victories by Hitler's armies from Poland to France is a miracle of training and staff precision to achieve co-ordinated application in battle. That is the lesson of this war, of the World War and of all previous wars.

Tendency To Expect Miracles

Nazi militarists have noted a tendency in German public opinion—which they regard as dangerous—to expect miracles where mechanical robots do the fighting, not men. Before this writer is a translation of an article in a Berlin technical military journal, "Militar Ochenblatt," appearing in Berlin last August. Its title is "Die Infantrie Im Blitzkrieg" and it came from the pen of a German professional soldier of rank.

He analyzes Nazi army victories from Poland to the final cracking of the French line on the Somme-Aisne which brought France to her knees. This is his conclusion:

"They (the battles) have proved that the enemy's last resistance must be broken, as hitherto, by the infantry, and that in the last hundred meters of a charge the infantry must accomplish this result unaided (by tanks, aircraft or artillery) and solely by force of its own weapons. x x it (the German infantry) bore the main burden of the struggle and proved to be queen of the battlefield."

The writer quotes from present German army regulations to govern training for "combined arms" as follows:

"The object of all arms is to allow the infantry to reach the enemy while still in possession of sufficient firing and attacking power to bring about a final decision."

If "in many places" in those battles the Nazi infantry came to grips with "an already crushed foe" due to effectiveness of Nazi aviation and tanks, the author adds, "this merely proves that our troops of all arms have been properly trained and not that the importance of the infantry's mission has diminished."

What Are Three Years?

Many Americans have marveled at the brave patience of the Chinese, who, at the end of three long years of grueling warfare, show no signs of giving in. They have been driven back, punished with bombs, stripped of capitals and lands. But they have carried on, and they carry on today with no sign of surrender.

Whence this patience, this ability to hang on and to wait? Well, the other day in bomb-ridden Chungking they celebrated the 2492d anniversary of Confucius, the Chinese sage venerated down through the unnumbered generations.

Time in a civilization so venerable, space in a country so vast, human life in a country so populous, are gauged differently than in our young and impatient civilization. Three years of punishment? China has been punished before. Slow, creeping, inexorable Time, the enemy of impatient westerners, is China's friend.

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON—It is a striking symptom of the focus of public attention that the election of Rep. John McCormack of Massachusetts as majority floor leader of the House attracted little more than passing notice.

Two years ago, before the war crises, both the event and the man would have been top head, front page news. And they would have warranted it.

In the legislative machinery of the House, the majority leader is a key pin. Through the power he wields, both open and under cover, he can decide the fate of bills. More than one strong-willed majority leader in the past has been the virtual boss of the House of Representatives.

No president can hope to get to first base in the House without the good will of the majority leader, and without a majority leader who is smart. Otherwise the White House incumbent is sure to be in constant hot water putting through the legislation he wants.

In addition to all this, McCormack's election was a political milestone. He is the first New England Democrat, and the second northern Democrat, in the history of the House to achieve this post.

Until McCormack's victory, every Democratic majority leader in the 152 years existence of the House—with one other exception—had been a southerner. Naturally this had a pronounced effect on the machinery of the chamber. And in the House, with 435 members, the machinery is all important.

Non-Sectional Leader

There are two other very significant facts about McCormack's election. One was the fact that he is a strong New Dealer and close personal friend of the president; and the other that he was elected with southern votes.

One of his most effective campaigners was Rep. Gene Cox of Georgia, frequently an assidiuous New Deal foe.

This apparent contradiction—a Boston-Irish New Dealer being enthusiastically supported by southern antis for a decisive post in party and legislative control—is the clue to why McCormack won it and to the kind of leadership that can be expected from him.

McCormack is a diplomat and not a slugger. He will rule by persuasion, not the strong-arm. This does not mean that he is a pussyfooter or softy. He can fight and hits hard when he has to, as the House well knows from experience. But McCormack's instinct is to talk softly and use the gloved hand.

It is noteworthy that while supporting every major New Deal measure and taking the lead in bitter battles over many of them, he left no personal scars. Cox is an example. A fierce foe of the National Labor Relations Act, he played a leading role in putting a bill through the House aimed at scuttling the law. McCormack just as determinedly fought the bill. Yet the two men remained warm friends.

Up From Bottom

This trait of standing firm for what he believes, without arousing personal animosities, may arise from McCormack's early conditioning. He came up the hard way.

One of six children in a poor South Boston family, the death of his father forced Joan to find work at the age of seven to help his mother keep the family together. He sold newspapers, pedaled the streets as a telegraph messenger, and left school at 13 to become office boy in a law firm at $3.50 a week.

From earliest youth, McCormack's ambition had been to be a lawyer. In the law office he devoted every spare moment to poring over legal tomes. As he grew older he secured permission to take books home to study at night, and apparently was so diligent that, without formal schooling, he passed the bar examinations at the age of 21, as soon as he was eligible to take them.

Tall, slender, with wavy black hair, a facile tongue and a way with him, it was inevitable that the young attorney should get into politics. But he didn't run for office until 1917, when he was elected a member of the Massachusetts Constitutional Convention, a real triumph for a 25-year-old beginner.

McCormack served only a few months, resigning to enlist in the army. After the armistice he was discharged as a sergeant major and lost no time returning to the political arena. A few months later he was elected to the Massachusetts Legislature, serving until 1926, his last two years as minority leader of the state senate. His most important contribution during this period was a bill establishing the first public cancer hospital in the country, at Foxboro.

McCormack's first try for Congress, against a veteran Democratic incumbent, was unavailing. But although defeated, McCormack laid the groundwork for a return engagement two years later and this time he won hands down.

In the House he soon attracted the attention of Jack Garner, then Democratic leader. The Texan put McCormack on the powerful Ways and Means committee, where he became known as the bane of favor-seeking tax lobbyists.

Sweethearts

McCormack is a teetotaler. He's a boon companion, but his only excess is cigars. He is rarely without one clutched in his teeth.

Two other addictions are corned beef and cabbage, which he will eat any time of the day or night; and animals. Recently, McCormack and his wife were motoring in the country when they almost hit a turtle in the middle of the road. McCormack swerved the car just in time and then continued for about a mile, when suddenly he stopped and looked at his wife.

"I was wondering how long it would take you to make up your mind to stop, John," she said. "Don't you think we ought to go back and do something about that turtle before it gets hit by another car?"

McCormack turned around, drove back to the turtle, still in the road, and placed it out of harm's way.

McCormack and his wife, a Metropolitan Opra star in the early 20's, are inseparable. Childless, they are deeply devoted to each other and in the 18 years of their married life have never missed an evening meal together. Their romance is famous on Capitol Hill.

After McCormack's election as leader, a group of friends, among them Speaker Sam Rayburn, whom McCormack succeeded, gathered in Rayburn's office for a pow-wow. The speaker reached for the telephone, announcing he was going to break the good news to Mrs. McCormack.

"Let John do that, Sam," said one of the group. "You know he and his wife are still sweethearts."

Woe To The Vanquished

Those who thought the French had tasted the full bitterness of defeat when their capital fell and their soldiers were disarmed did not look deeply enough into the cup of despair.

Now there is a report in Washington that the German government has formally demanded of France, unoccupied France, 58 percent of all the food and raw materials it possesses or that it may import.

Whether this is accurate or not we cannot say. It seems likely. Germany needs food. France is prostrate and helpless. Germany takes the food. That is the law of conquest, and has been ever since Brennus threw his sword contemptuously into the scales weighing out the ransom money for Rome, and snarled contemptuously at the protesting senators, "Vae victis!"—"Woe to the vanquished!"

France shrank from making sacrifices for victory. Now she has defeat—and makes the sacrifices just the same.

The picture of Jack Kreissler modeling the new uniform of the Smith-Cotton high school band was not obtained without some inconvenience to Jack and Band Leader J. T. Alexander. To "make" the Friday edition Jack had to strip down, change clothes in the Democrat's library, and face the flood lights. Then he had to change clothes again and go back to school. In the meantime the staff photographer discovered that the "shot" didn't take because of too cold developer, or something too mysterious for me to understand. So Jack and Alec made the second trip to the office to go through the dressing and undressing routine.

Sedalians will agree that the boys and girls of the band looked mighty nifty in the new dress, parading on Ohio street and at the football game Friday night.

They Cling Together—

Classic example of a hard-headed New Dealer, a Republican friend informs us, is the lassie whose skull stopped the metal waste basket thrown from a hotel window by a New Deal employe during the Willkie parade in Detroit. The victim who was after Wendell's autograph came out of the hospital still determined that "she'd vote for Roosevelt, and her whole family, too.' Says friend Republican, "you'd think that waste basket woulda knocked some sense into her."

Another One—

Classic example of a hard-headed Democrat business man is the one disagreeing with vice-presidential candidate Henry Wallace who said on our court house lawn: "Men in government bureaus are more efficient than men in business. There is more red tape in business. I think there is more efficiency in government bureaucracy than in business."

Henry thought he was addressing a total farmer audience, but there were a lot of Sedalia business men in the crowd who strongly resented the implication that they do not know how to run their little businesses as well as the government bureaus. In fact many of them have drawers full of correspondence with bureaus that clearly refute Henry's statement on efficiency.

To prove his point on efficiency of governmental bureaucracy, the former secretary of agriculture pointed out that if a person went into a department store to inquire for Clerk John Smith, no one in the organization would be quick to tell where John could be found. On the other hand if you went into a government bureau and asked for John, quick as a flash you could be told where to find him.

Now we ask you, what relation has this comparison on efficiency to do with business management and the problems of profit and loss, meeting the payroll, anticipated taxes, planning machinery replacements and economical improvements, considering obsolescence and depreciation, etc., etc. Even John Smith, himself, doesn't care whether his friends find him. He's probably busy on a machine making a living and too busy to entertain company in the middle of the day whether he is in a business establishment or a government bureau.

Mr. Wallace may be a top notch bureaucrat but he knows very little about business. Today efficient business operation extends to the farm, also, so Henry's philosophy missed fire both ways.

There are a lot of New Dealers who will condemn me for saying these things about Henry, but by golly, the above is the truth and any small town business man or farmer wants the truth told. It's not our fault if Henry runs around sticking his neck out.

I'm not saying these things in an effort to lose Mr. Wallace any votes. Those who disagree with me won't be impressed by what I write anyway because they know Henry and F.D.R. have got this election in the bag—and you know how.

But when Henry tells me that he and his Washington playmates are better business men than we little fellows out here in Central Missouri, it riles me, because I know he is not truthful since the record is clear that the bureau boys suffered failure in business life until they joined up with the New Deal and ride the taxpayers' money wagon.

So the only reason, as I say, that I criticise Henry is because he got me steamed up. This is the only way I can open the valve and keep from blowing up inside. Ever since Henry left town I have felt bottled up with resentment over what he said about business. Now I feel better, and I hope you do too.

But I'm tolerant and I still like Henry. I wish that he was the candidate for president instead of F.D.R. Breaking that third term precedent worries me. It just isn't right.

Katharine Brush Sums Up The American Case, Based On A Belief In Freedom

(Last of 24 articles on "Our Country," written exclusively for NEA Service and Sedalia Democrat and Capital by the nation's most famous authors)

By Katharine Brush
Author of "Young Man of Manhattan," "Other Women," "This Is On Me."

Not so very long ago, a few people in this country of ours decided to have a revolution. For one thing, they were fed up with some things that a demented old man at the head of some lazy and self-important ministers wanted to do to their pocket books, and they were also sore at the way he was going about it. The policy followed was that the 13 colonies in the New World were just that—colonies; and should be delighted to take orders from the Mother Country.

It didn't take the king and his ministers long to find out, even at this early stage of American history, that Americans don't like to take orders. And the king's successors realized that the Americans were right, and so they had a social revolution of their own and made their country every bit as democratic as their late colonies were.

But most of the other countries in the Old World weren't as clever. Feudalism was still the order, so those who were being oppressed turned to the west. They crossed the ocean by sail and by steam and they came to America—where opportunity and the right to work existed and were recognized. And America grew—founded on a belief in freedom.

Now Americans are, without doubt, the most generous and idealistic people in the world. We hear of an earthquake, a famine, a flood somewhere, and immediately we jump to the rescue It isn't because we're so darn wealthy; it's because we pride ourselves on being humanitarian.

So that's why our backs get up when we see what is happening abroad. We firmly believe that such suffering is needless. We firmly believe that we have basically the right form of government. We firmly believe it, and we'll just as firmly defend our belief.

There's a revolution going on in Europe—a negative one—and the outcome will mean either a reversal to feudalism or a continuance of our way of life. America is for the status quo of democratic principles.

That is the American case. These are the tenets by which we live. These are the props that we refuse to have pulled out from under us.

The Story of Your Newspaper

I Am the Advertising Man . . .

This is the last of a series telling the story of your newspaper. The Sedalia Democrat and Capital is presenting these articles in connection with National Newspaper Week, Oct. 1-8.

I'm the advertising man.

I am the oil on the wheels of progress. They might move without me, but they wouldn't move so smoothly or so efficiently.

I am the link between the people who want to sell and the people who want to buy. It is my job to bring people together—to bring people who want jobs to people who want help—to bring people who have lost a treasured possession to people who may have found it—to bring the person who seeks shelter to him who has shelter to offer—to bring buyer and seller together, as a carburetor mixes air and gasoline to produce a mixture latent with power.

I AM an agent of progress. Who has built a better mouse trap? I am the signpost that directs the world to his door. Are there newer and better products, newer and better ways of doing things? Through me the world learns of them. In that way I serve progress.

The little girl who has lost a beloved puppy, the aging man who wants to sell out the business to which he has devoted a lifetime, the innovator with a new machine or a new process, the great merchant with his fairyland of new things to sell—all these I serve, and many more.

I AM alert and aggressive. Opportunity is the goods in which I deal: I am trained to see it and to discover it. From the full-page display ad with its compelling message, to the tiniest liner with its whispered suggestion, I am ready to serve, and untold millions have found me useful.

They seldom credit me with being an educator. But I am. I teach new and better ways of doing things. I am a gadfly constantly buzzing to prevent people from getting set in their ways.

In a business civilization, I am the spark-plug of business. In a world where people grow farther and farther apart, I bring them together.

'Rhythm On The River' Now Showing At The Fox Theatre

Bing Crosby and Mary Martin can sing, we're sure, but from what we've heard of Oscar Levard in "Information Please," radio's quiz program, we're inclined to believe he should stick to composing and authoring. At any rate, here are three players in Bing's new feature, "Rhythm On the River," now showing at the Fox theatre. Basil Rathbone and Lillian Cornell are also in the cast

"All This, Heaven Too" At The Uptown Today, Monday and Tuesday

In line with its policy of presenting the finest of the new crop of film entertainment, the Uptown Theatre will show "All This and Heaven, Too," Warner Bros. picturization of the sensationally successful Rachel Field novel. Bette Davis and Charles Boyer are co-starred in the film, which opens today at the Uptown.

As one of the most important pictures on the 1940 schedule, Warner Bros. have produced "All This and Heaven, Too" on a lavish scale, sparing no efforts in making the brilliant, absorbing novel come to vibrant life on the screen. Made under the personal supervision of Jack L. Warner, vice-president in charge of production, Hal B. Wallis, executive producer and David Lewis, associate producer, the film was directed by Anatole Litvak, whose deft artistry in handling deeply romantic themes is well-known to motion picture audiences. From the brilliant co-staring team of Miss Davis and Boyer down to the smallest character "bit," the film has been cast with minute care.

Out of Cachel Field's gripping pages comes the immortal story of a young French girl, her background shrouded in mystery, who enters the home of one of France's great noblemen, the Duc de Praslin, as governess to his children. How strangely the destinies of these two, the little governess and the great lord, become interwoven forms the fascinating theme of this great story.

Supporting Miss Davis and Boyer is a huge featured cast which includes such names as Jeffrey Lynn, Barbara O'Neil, Virginia Weidler, Helen Westley, Walter Hampden, Henry Daniell, Harry Davenport, George Colouris, Montagu Love, Janet Beecher, June Lockhart, Ann Todd, Richard Nichols, Fritz Leiber, Ian Keith and many more.

Casey Robinson, who was responsible for the screen treatments of such recent Betty Davis successes as "The Old Maid" and "Dark Victory," wrote the screen plan based on Miss Field's novel. A brilliant musical score by Max Steiner accompanies the dramatic action of "All This And Heaven Too."

Co-feature is "Mystery of The White Room" with Bruce Cabot and Helen Mack.

'Mr. Smith Goes To Washington'

"Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," and promptly discovers Jean Arthur is one of the more delightful views in the nation's capital! "Mr. Smith" is James Stewart, and the two are co-starred at the Liberty theatre in Frank Capra's stirring new romantic comedy of an earnest boy who suddenly is appointed to the United States senate. Companion feature "The Farmer's Daughter," with Martha Raye, Charles Ruggles and latest MGM News now playing the Liberty theatre through Tuesday.

FSA Has Funds Available For Assistance

Loans Procurable Under Sound Farm And Home Plans

With funds for the current year now available, the Farm Security Administration has resumed accepting applications from Pettis county farm families for operating credit and assistance in setting up sound farm and home plans. This was announced today by Oscar H. DeWolf, county FSA supervisor at Sedalia, Mo.

This assistance is offered by the FSA under its Rural Rehabilitation program. Applications, Mr. DeWolf explained, are accepted from any family that lacks resources needed for efficient operation but who cannot obtain credit from other recognized sources.

"In other words, the FSA does no' attempt to assist those who can borrow from their local banks or other lending agencies," he said.

The loan, it was pointed out, constitutes only one factor in the Rural Rehabilitation program. More important, the family must work out sound farm and home plans. These plans involve home production and preservation of food, balance between livestock and crop production, keeping of accurate records, operation of recommended farming practices, attention to soil conservation and similar items.

"In fact, the program involves a well-rounded plan for farm living and farm operation," Mr. DeWolf said.

Applicants are assisted by Mr. DeWolf and Miss Virginia Lee Slusher, county FSA home supervisor, in laying out their plans. It is on the basis of this planning that applications are approved or rejected. Plans must show that, under average conditions, the family will be able to repay its loan, maintain a decent standard of living, and lay up reserves for future security.

It was emphasized that early application will be to the advantage of the family. Mr. DeWolf pointed out that those who apply now not only will be able to avoid the spring rush next February, but will have plenty of time to plan 1941 operations.

"That's an important factor," he said. "Effective farm and home planning must be done well in advance of the season. We all know that it takes fall plowing to make a good garden next spring. And you can't, for example, delay your hog breeding program until March if you expect to have a spring pig crop."

Another advantage of early application is that it allows for plenty of time to locate bargains in used machinery and equipment.

Mr. DeWolf explained that families joining the Rural Rehabilitation program this fall need not draw the full amount of their loans if they need only a portion now. They can lay out complete plans and then only use enough for immediate needs.

"That way, they can save interest charges since interest is due only on the money actually drawn from the loan account," he said. "Interest on the full amount will not begin until the rest of the money is drawn next spring."

Applications may be submitted at the Pettis county FSA office in Sedalia, in the county court house.

at least eight invaders were reported destroyed in flames.

Through its news service, the air ministry said that over southeastern England German fighter planes "in fifties and hundreds" flew for many hours to protect "small knots of bombers."

Attack "Invasion Coast"

DOVER, England, Oct. 5.—(AP)—British bombers loosed a heavy attack tonight upon the German-held French "invasion coast" and to cliff watchers here it appeared that the whole area from Dunkerque to Boulogne was one great blaze of light.

One witness declared that the RAF was dropping "bombs galore" adding:

"Fires and bomb explosions and bursting shells reflected by the low clouds lit up our own coast for some way inland."

"It almost seemed as though the bombs were dropping here at Dover."

Claim Raids Turned Back

BERLIN, Oct. 6.—(Sunday)—(AP)—British bombers last night and early today raided points in Holland, Belgium and western Germany, but authorized German sources said they were turned back with losses.

There was no raid on Berlin, which has been without alarm for the past few nights.

The Germans at the same time reported they bombed middle and southeast England during the night.

ing elderly people should receive from the state treasury sufficient income to properly care for themselves. Later we voted a two-cent sales tax to provide sufficient revenue to pay our deserving elderly people a maximum of $30 per month if single and $45 per month if married. In the past two years the sales tax has returned to the state treasury more than 46 million in revenues. Yet our old people have received less than one-third of this amount.

"We are proud of our old people of the state of Missouri, yet we have shamefully treated them. If I represent this district in the state senate, I shall do my best to see that the old people receive their just share of the revenue, and that they do not have to become beggars in order to get that which is justly coming to them.

"I am not a machine politician. I do not want the vote of a machine politician. If I represent this district in the state senate it shall not be to represent any machine, but to represent all of the people of the district.

"I would like to see Sedalia receive the unemployment compensation building, but Sedalia will never get this building by sending machine politicians to Jefferson City," Mr. Miller concluded.

While awaiting whatever is now to come, Germany will celebrate tomorrow the annual harvest festival, equivalent in some ways to the American Thanksgiving. Traditionally, it should be observed by farmers in a mass demonstration in the Hamelin district, but as a war and propaganda measure, Kandeln, in the Saar, and the Palatinate, near the Siegfried line, have been designated.

Special awards will be made to farmers who, within the range of French guns and even under fire, tilled their soil in the west.

Commenting on the festival, Minister of Agriculture Walther Darre said in the Boersen Zeitung: "We owe it to our farmers that 'general hunger,' in whom the English placed such great hopes, had no chance whatever."

est service than many of those who are their opponents."

In dedicating the schools, the President said that without censorship or restriction, American children of today and the future would be taught the facts of current history and the whole context of current knowledge.

"Their textbooks will not be burned by a dictator who disagrees with them," the chief executive said. "Their teachers will not be banished by a ruler whom they have offended; their schools will not be closed if they teach unpalatable truths; and their daily instruction will not be governed by the decrees of any central bureau propaganda."

"I think both of us can agree," he said, "that on matters that relate to education in this state of ours and in this county of ours, there's very little that is decided or done or thought of on lines of party politics. Education is over and beyond party politics—and sometimes I wish that other things were too."

The three new schools, the President said, are symbolic not only of the government's responsibility for providing free, universal education, but also of its duty to give work to those unable to find it. Each of these functions of government, he said, "is proving itself more and more vital to the continuance of our democracy."

"Eight years ago," he said, "at a time when our national economy had been prostrate for several years, when starvation and bankruptcy had almost become the order of the day," there were some who "chanted" that nature had to "run its course of misery, that deflation could not be stopped and that the depression was only the working of natural economic laws."

"The American government," he added, "decided to reject this philosophy of inaction and irresponsibility and indifference to the destitution of its citizens. In its place was substituted a new doctrine x x x that no one should starve who was willing to work but unable to find work."

"In building for the well being of America," he said, "we have built for the defense of America as well."

The Tigers And Bolivar Grid Men Tangle

Top: Jimmy Myers shot off tackle to put over a gain of five yards and give Smith-Cotton a first down. Myers was one of several other backfield Tigers who gave Bolivar this kind of trouble. Umpire George Smith is seen to the right rushing in with his hands high in the air signaling a down ball.

Bottom: Note Leland Thomas carrying the ball and already upsetting one of Bolivar's would-be attackers with the other player swinging his arms in the air with the idea of making a flying tackle or something. It was plays like these which "upset" the visiting Bolivar team so often that it became a habit.

Agree on Rivers Harbor Bill

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—(AP)—Congress advanced another step toward clearing its legislative calendar today when a Senate-House committee agreed upon a bill authorizing $34,500,000 of rivers and harbors projects for national defense.

Biggest item was $17,674,000 to construct a 21,000-foot breakwater off the harbor at Los Angeles and Long Beach, Calif., for the expanding fleet of the navy.

Other items included seaplane basins at several points and channel dredging at strategic shipyards.

The measure merely authorizes appropriations and the funds must be voted before actual work can begin.

Senator Bailey (D-N.C.), said two "flood control" items were dropped at the insistence of House members.

They were a $1,640,000 dike at East Hartford, Conn., and a proposal by Senator Norris (Ind.-Neb.), to shift the location of a flood control reservoir on the Republican river in Nebraska.

Both the Senate and House were in recess today. They may act Monday on the committee's bill.

Congressional leaders were talking about an agreement to recess on Tuesday for an as yet undecided length of time. Some favored a recess until after the November elections.

Is Burned While In City Jail

George Enteler, a member of the veterans CCC camp in Sedalia, picked up by the police for being intoxicated and lodged in the city jail, was badly burned when his right shirt sleeve caught fire Saturday night. The origin of the fire was believed to have been caused from a cigarette.

Clarence Brizendine, a prisoner in the jail, discovered the fire and put it out by throwing water on Enteler. Firemen were attracted by the calls of Brizendine and police removed Enteler to the police station where first aid was given by Assistant Fire Chief William Middleton, Firemen Potts Vaught and Leo Huffman.

Captain Jones of the camp was notified and he had Dr. Gordon Stauffacher treat the man who was later removed in a government ambulance to the Bothwell hospital.

His burns, although painful are not serious. The right shoulder, under his arm and chest were burned.

Knox Warns Triple Powers Axis U. S. Not Be Intimidated

England are problems we must face now, realistically, with swift action," he said.

In stressing the important role played by federal and other peace officers in safeguarding shipyards and munitions plants, Knox asserted that "we know there are hundreds, even thousands of saboteurs within our gates." If the navy and army are called on to meet a challenge on the high seas and on the battlefield, he added, "it is your task to see that no one stabs them in the back while they are thus engaged."

Michigan Wolverines Win Over Michigan State 21-14

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 5—(AP)—All-America Tom Harmon roared down the touchdown trail again today and scored three times as Michigan's Wolverines rolled to a 21 to 14 victory over an air-minded Michigan State football team. A crowd of 65,438 witnessed the performance, virtually a one-man show.

In contrast to his long gallops against California last week, terrible Tommy this time dashed across the goal line on runs of 13, 9 and 2 yards. He place-kicked all three extra points and ran his scoring total to 49 points in two games this season.

Tennessee Vols' Defeat Duke—Rose Bowl Bound

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 5—(AP)—The Tennessee Vols' grid prestige, punctured in the 1940 Rose Bowl game, was patched and pumped up skin tight today with a sparkling 13 to 0 victory over "one of the best football teams in Duke history."

Forty-two thousand sun-saturated fans who overflowed Shield-Watkins stadium sat thrilled and amazed as Coach Bob Neyland's team, forsaking for the first time the solid old army game, ran the legs from under the Blue Devils with a tricky new shift, some fancy ball juggling and more passing than the Vol fans have seen in a long time.

garding this election."

He said the President "slyly referred to it also."

Willkie told the thronged auditorium that he did not know "what those dictators think—I am not in their confidence."

He said he was interested in making the American people "so they won't have to give so much regard to what those dictators think."

Before beginning his drive for Brooklyn's votes, Willkie talked New York politics today with Republican leaders and told them that his month-long campaign tours had been successful.

The presidential nominee, preparing to speak next week through the populous centers of New England, New York and New Jersey, lunched with Edwin F. Jaeckle, Republican state chairman; Kenneth F. Simpson, former national committeeman, and other New York party officials.

Simpson was ousted last spring by the forces of Thomas E. Dewey, an unsuccessful contender for the Republican presidential nomination, and was a Willkie supporter at the national convention.

Among Willkie's callers during the day was chairman Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of the Republican national committee. Earlier, Martin told a press conference that the present campaign "is a horse race" and then issued a formal statement declaring:

"I am perfectly satisfied with the way the campaign is progressing. We are getting good reports from the states Mr. Willkie has visited."

Martin asserted that Chairman Edward J. Flynn of the Democratic national committee had left a party convention in New York and hurried west and that President Roosevelt had found it necessary "to create an excuse to visit Pittsburgh, Dayton and Youngstown, through which Mr. Willkie has just traveled."

"A disinterested observer," he added, "can only conclude the third termers are in a bit of a panic, and, frankly, they have reasons to be."

Would Lead In Fight For Peace

By WILLIAM B. ARDERY

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie, returning to Philadelphia four months after his nomination as Republican presidential candidate, accused the New Deal last night of putting politics before defense needs and declared that, if elected, he would "lead this nation back to work."

"If we are to make America strong, we must go to work," he told a crowd under floodlights at Shibe Park, home of Philadelphia's big league baseball clubs. "Only production not orders—can defend us from aggressors."

Willkie termed the nation's defenses even less adequate than four years ago, charged the Roosevelt administration with "blocking the creative force of our people," and declared:

"The longer the United states remains incompetent to defnd itself, the closer we are drawn toward war. We must stop that drift toward war.

"I want to lead the fight for peace. I know how to lead that fight."

In several industrial sections boos were heard in the applause.

"I could take a million boos and they wouldn't hurt me," Willkie repried once. "The man that it hurts is the man who boos, because he has closed his mind."

There were cheers when the candidate concluded, "give me a square shake, boys—that's what I want; that's what you want."

Two Hurt When Car Overturns

Roscoe Krewson, about 22, of Clinton, suffered a fractured right arm and bruises about the shoulder and Miss Garnetta Fleming, of Milford, Iowa, a student at C. M. S. T. C at Warrensburg suffered a slight laceration on the head, when the car in which they were riding overturned here last night.

The 1940 Chevrolet coupe in which they were riding was driven by Aggie McMillian, of Clinton. The accident happened just outside the city limits on Highway 50 near State Fair Boulevard about 10:30 o'clock, when McMillian swerved the car to avoid hitting a truck ahead of them.

Homer Bottagler of Orrick, was the driver of the truck. The injured were treated at the Bothwell hospital after being taken there in their car after the accident. They were later released.

Fire Safety Begins At Home, Is Assertion Of Fire Chief Lueck

All Urged To Do Their Part To Help Prevent Blazes

"You wouldn't leave the safety of your children's morals entirely up to your preacher," said Chief John Lueck in an interview with a Democrat - Capital reporter. "Why leave their fire safety entirely up to the fire department?

"We are always ready to rush men and apparatus to your assistance if flames attack your home, but it is to your advantage to prevent fires yourself.

"Let's start with hazards found in the kitchen . . . Leaking gas stoves are an explosion and fire hazard. Have a plumber make the necessary repairs when you smell gas. Don't take a chance looking for any gas leak with a lighted match or candle. To avoid spontaneous ignition fires, keep oily cleaning cloths or mops in a tight-closing metal container.

"We all use electricity so much that we sometimes forget it presents a serious hazard if misused. If any of the wire cords on lamps or appliances are worn or frayed, it is best to replace them before they cause a short circuit that may result in a fire. Outside aerials for radios should be connected to a 'ground' deep enough in the earth to reach permanent moisture and be equipped with a lightning arrester. Don't put a coin behind a burnt-out electric fuse, as this permits any overload of current to flow through the wires until they become white hot, possibly igniting a fire. All new wiring and extensions should be done by an expert electrician. When you purchase electrical appliances, look for those that are safe, rather than for bargains. Unless your heat-producing appliances have an automatic shut-off to prevent over-heating, it's best to pull out the plug when leaving the room.

Unseen Dangers

"Attics usually are the storage place for discarded furniture, old clothing, cartons overflowing with miscellaneous articles and piles of papers. This is all out-of-sight and often undisturbed for considerable time. Spontaneous combustion sometimes breeds in such material. When anyone does go up there, a chance dropping of a lighted match may start a fire. Yet, you probably will never use any of this old material. Why not clear it all out this week?

"Down in the cellar you may have another accumulation of papers and rubbish that should be disposed of. Remember, too, that paint-stained cloths cause spontaneous ignition fires. Unless you dispose of them at once, put them in a can with an air-tight cover.

"Furnaces and stoves cause a great number of fires because of neglect. Here are my suggestions for them: Clean out the soot every year. Check over and replace all broken or rusted-out parts and pipes. Protect any burnable material too near hot parts of the heater with asbestos or metal, with an air space between it and the material. Also clean the chimney and repair cracks and loose bricks or mortar. Never 'force' your heating plant in cold weather. It's best to call in a furnace expert if you don't get enough heat.

Fires Spread Throught the Hollow Walls

"Many fires that your fire department could ordinarily put out with little damage, quickly spread to involve the entire building. This is because the flames are drawn up through hollow walls. You can prevent this happening by installing a ceiling of gypsum plaster on metal lath in your cellar, extending from foundation to foundation or at least in the furnace room. Added protection will be gained by putting fire stops of incombustible material between the studs in the walls at floor levels and by means of a heavy door at the head of the cellar stairs.

This Is Fire Prevention Week

"All citizens are urged to do their part to conserve the nation's resources. This is especially important this year because of national defense plans. Fires destroy materials and thereby endanger national defense!

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK · OCTOBER 6-12

Will You Help?

Fire Prevention Week is the annual organized effort to make the nation realize that most fires are preventable.

You have been urged to take part in many different kinds of "weeks." This is more than just another "week." For the startling fact, which every citizen should remember at home or at work, is that three-quarters of all fires are preventable!

Because of carelessness, thousands of lives and millions of dollars are lost every year. Year after year 200 capital stock fire insurance companies do all they can to cut down this needless waste. Cooperating with homeowners, fire departments, school and hospital authorities and all other public officials and with business groups of every character, these 200 companies have aided in preventing many fires and saving many lives. The practical result of this combined effort in preventing fires is further evidenced by a reduction of 40% in the average fire insurance rate during the last thirty years.

Your help is needed. If you . . . and all other citizens . . . will be "fire conscious" during Fire Prevention Week and every other week, most preventable fires will be prevented.

Chairman, Philadelphia Fire Prevention Committee.

"My home is my castle."

Every man, woman and child generally recognizes the full import of this old saying. The home is the institution for which one lives. It is the place toward which one normally turns his footsteps after a day of toil or an evening of pleasure. It is the one place to which children look for counsel, for guidance, for rest, for all of the things that make the child's life a happy life.

How strange it seems, therefore, that by one act of carelessness , that for which such great sacrifices have been made should be destroyed within a few minutes. The sacrifices and labor of a lifetime destroyed by the careless smoker, the careless use of matches, uncared-for chimneys and flues. There is no need for this destruction by fire. Fire prevention requires only a small amount of time, a little care and a little thoughtfulness.

The pleas of organizations and individuals to prevent fires are based upon the highest motives. It is your home they are seeking to save. See that fire prevention instruction is placed upon the programs of home and school leagues, parent-teacher associations, women's clubs and other organizations in your community. A little thought on your part and you will see how easy it is to prevent fire. Teach fire prevention to your family. Talk about it at the dinner table. Discuss fire problems with them. Make them understand that children should never be left alone in the home, that flammable liquids should never be brought into the house as cleansing agents. Mothers and fathers in farm homes should see that kerosene is never used to make a fire burn quicker.

These little things are the things that protect your homes and children. A clean and safe home is sure to be a happy one. This is a direct appeal to all mothers, fathers and young people in the United States.

Aviation Really Speeds Things Up In Dutch East Indies . . . One Trip Cut From Month to Seven Hours

Like a scene at one of America's great airports is this picture showing KNILM planes at Kemajoran, civil airport of Batavia, Dutch East Indies. Metal runways are a feature of this port.

This is another dispatch from Peter Edson, editor of NEA Service, who was a member of the Pan American press flying party inauguarating clipper passenger service to New Zealand.

By PETER EDSON
Editor, NEA Service

BATAVIA, Duch East Indies. —Aviation, and with American-made planes, is playing a major role in the development of the Dutch East Indies, bringing closer together the thousand and more big, medium-sized and tiny islands in this South Pacific archipelago, 3000 miles from east to west, 1200 miles from north to south.

One example tells the tale. Formerly, a Dutch civil service controller going to a new post in Borneo's jungle had to spend a month by boat, traveling 2000 miles up river. Now he can be flown in from the capital in a mere matter of hours.

The whole story of flying to and in the Indies begins with Dr. Thomassen A. T. Van der Hoop, a prematurely bald young Dutchman who is now, of all things, curator of archaeology in the national museum at Batavia. Twenty-five years ago, as a young pilot in Holland, he conceived the crazy idea of flying from Amsterdam to the Indies. He got backing and with two other foolhardy souls, set out in an old amphibian, crossed Europe, the Near East, India—9000 miles in a month, pioneering a route which up to the outbreak of the war was flying it in a week, one plane every other day.

Service Started in 1928

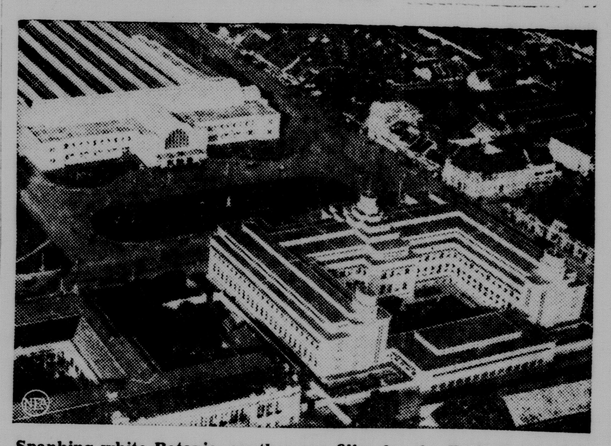

Dr. Van der Hoop saw no future in flying—for pilots— and so turned to the more lasting study of the impact of foreign invasions on Javanese society, and in his timeless way he considers the modern rule of the Dutch as merely the most recent of these invasions. Hindus and Mohammedans invaded and ruled the lands in their own, beginning with the sixth century.

(Who's next? And will invasion be by air?)

Anyway, as early as 1928, aviation seemed here to stay and in that year the Royal Netherlands Indies airways, Koninklijke Nederlandsch - Indische Luchtvaart Maatschappij, KNILM for short, began a 65-mile service from Batavia to Bandodeng, Java. Today KNILM operates on nine different routes, flying 200,000 miles a month, carrying 45,000 passengers and 340,000 pounds of mail and freight a year.

Travelers on KNILM fly over breath-taking natural wonders such as the crater of Raoeng volcano in Java.

Spanking white Batavia, another eye-filler for the KNILM traveler.

From Sidney and Port Darwin, Australia, KNILM planes fly to Bali, most colorful spot in the Pacific. From Bali, on to Soerabaya and Batavia in densely populated Java, the scenery taking in volcanoes, crater lakes, rice, rubber, sugar and tobacco lands all laid out in the most intensive cultivation in the world.

Sunday in Batavia, capital of the Indies, is the day to spend at the big modern airport. Planes are in from Palestine, from Singapore and out to the distant spots of the island empire. They cross Sumatra, the big rubber producing area. They reach oil fields in places with high-sounding names like Palembang, Balikpapan, Tarakan, Bandjermasin—names to be relished by an old-fashioned train caller.

Fish Eggs to Refinery Parts

In freight they haul everything from fish eggs to stock a sultan's private trout stream to spare parts for a cracking unit at an oil refinery or fresh vegetables to some isolated white man in need of vitamins. Drugs and newsreels and the latest thrillers from Hollywood and periodicals from New York, with international postage running up to a dollar an ounce.

The fish eggs, by the way, may be descended from California rainbow trout, imported to New Zealand in freshwater tanks 60 years ago. The machine parts keep the wheels going in the jungle plantations. Formerly, in case of a breakdown, it took from six months to a year to get replacements from Europe or America. Orders go out by radiogram, now, and replacements arrive in a couple of weeks.

All this internal air development is looking for new international connections. The Dutch would like to fly to Manila, tying up with Pan American clipper ships to Hongkong and the United States. Routes from Singapore to Siam and French Indo-China are canceled by the threat of hostilities from the direction of Japan. Routes to Europe must stop at Palestine. Routes to England go by way of Egypt and South Africa and thence by boat, a long, hard haul.

If the world could ever get over the wars and threats of wars, it might get on with its flying business.

ERRORS IN DIAGNOSIS

Patients are certainly in a dilema when they have been to several doctors and no two had given the same diagnosis. Whom will they believe?

A lady came to my office and wanted a thorough examination and opinion as to what was the matter. After being told my opinion she informed me that I was the fourth doctor who had examined her and that each had a different idea. I explained the chiropractic viewpoint that it made little difference what the name of the condition was the important thing is WHAT CAUSED IT?

Dr. Roy M. Keller

From her spinal analysis, I told her where the trouble was even though she had not informed me; it was caused by a disturbance of the nerves to the female organs and explained that this could account for all the symptoms which she had experienced.

Removal of the irritation of the nerves to this area resulted in disappearance of the symptoms. This was years ago and she has remained free from the trouble.

Many in our profession object to giving a diagnosis other than informing the patient of where the cause is located. This is not without reason but most people want to know what to call it. We are acquainted with the diagnostic facts but the important thing is—what caused it. That is the reason chiropractors succeed so often after others fail.

Organized Women's Activities Here Are in Full Swing

With the opening of the Helen G. Steele Music club Wednesday afternoon the 1940-41 club season in Sedalia will be in full swing.

The music club commences its official season in October of each year with a luncheon complimenting new members of which there are eighteen this year, bringing the membership to its full quota of 250.

The luncheon Wednesday will be at one o'clock at the Heard Memorial clubhouse. It will be followed by the introduction of the neophyte members by their sponsors and a special musical program which has been arranged by Mrs. E. F. Yanvey, life president of the music club. Several surprises are promised.

Year books are now being made ready and exceptionally fine programs, bringing well known guest artists, have been planned for the bi-monthly club meetings.

Paul Derringer Wins First Time In World Series

Buck Newson May Return Today For Detroit; Thompson For Cincinatti Reds

By JUDSON BAILEY

BRIGGS STADIUM, DETROIT, Oct. 5—(AP)—The courageous Cincinnati Reds coursed back onto even terms in the 1940 world series today by muzzling the Detroit Tigers, 5 to 2, on the five-hit pitching of big Paul Derringer.

The Reds raided three Detroit pitchers for 11 hits and were always on the attack, to the amazement of a crowd of 54,093 who turned out for the fourth fracas of the annual autumn classic.

They kept up a more or less constant shower of hits, but the important contribution to the conquest was the strong-arm hurling of Derringer.

Derringer's Fifth Start

It was the fifth time the 33-year-old Kentuckian had started in a world series, once when he was breaking in for the St. Louis Cardinals and four times with the Reds, and this was his first victory.

He went into today's tussle as a bit of surprise strategy on the part of Manager Bill McKechnie and determined to stifle the Tiger sluggers. He did it with the same stout-hearted elbowing that he has used to pull the National league champions out of many another tight hole.

Wild Start—Strong Finish

He was wild at the start, but the longer he pitched the tougher he became, giving no hits and no walks after the sixth inning.

The Reds, in the meantime, had pounced on Paul (Dizzy) Trout for two runs in the first inning and shelled him off the mound before he got anybody out in the third.

As usual the bell cow of the Cincinnati club was Bill Werber, who went to the plate five times and got on base four—with two singles and two walks.

He waited out a pass to start the game and after he had been forced by Mike McCormick, little Ival Goodman slammed the first pitch into the left field corner for a double and a run. Goodman went to third on an infield out and scored himself when Pinky Higgins let a grounder by Jim Ripple get throug him for an error.

Trout was touched for two more singles in the second without damage, but in the third Goodman led off with a sizzling single to right center and on the hit and run went to third as Frank (Buck) McCormick singled to right. Ripple doubled along the left field foul line to score Goodman and put McCormick on third, and send the bespectacled right-hander plodding to the showers.

Clay Smith, who went to the rescue, squeezed out of the jam by forcing two players to pop up, purposely passing Billy Myers to fill the bases and then making Derringer lay down an easy grounder.

Reds Make Trouble

The Reds kept right on making trouble, however, Werber again walking to open the fourth, going to third as Mike McCormick lined a double into right and scoring after Goodman had lifted a long fly to Hank Greenberg in left center.

Smith then managed to hold Cincinnati in check for two frames, but was removed for a pinchhitter in the sixth and the Reds went to work on Lefty Archie McKain for their final run in the eighth as well as singles in the seventh and ninth.

Two were out in the eighth when Werber needled a single through the box and went to second on a wild pitch. Mike McCormick came up with another single to bring Werber home.

The Tigers 'runs came in the third and the other in the sixth and neither touched off an inspired rally such as Detroit produced to win the first and third games of the series.

With one out in the second inning Barney McCosky waited out a walk, went to second on an infield out and came racing home as Greenberg hammered a double along the left field foul line.

Rudy York walked as Derringer took care to keep good balls away and then Bruce Campbell struck out.

Higgins Triples

In the sixth stanza two were out before Campbell singled sharply to right and came hurrying home as Higgins lifted a tremendous fly against the right field screen for a triple.

Derringer walked Catcher Billy Sullivan, a left-handed hitter, and Earl Averill, pinch-hitting for Smith, flied out to end the uprising.

The only other hits that Derringer gave up were a single by Higgins with one on and two out in the second and a single by McCosky with none on and one out in the fifth.

The trumph atoned well for Derringer's defeat in the opening game at Cincinnati and put the Reds in good shape for the remainder of the series, which now is certain to return to Cincinnati and will be the first one to go six games since he New York Giants and Yankees struggled that distance in 1936.

Manager Bill McKechnie said after the game he was undecided whether to start young Gene Thompson tomorrow or come back with Bucky Walters, whose three-hit pitching piloted the Reds to their vicory in he second game.

The best judgment here was that Thompson probably would get his chance at last. With the tide even McKechnie can afford to string along with the young fast-baller just as Del Baker did today with Trout.

Baker expected to start Buck Newsom again and hoped that the big fellow would repeat his first game success.

Notre Dame Has Power

Stagg's Little College Of Pacific Swept Off Feet; A Score of 25-7

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 5—(AP)—Notre Dame, perennial contender for the national football championship, swept over Amos Alonzo Staggs little College of the Pacific team today, 25 to 7, opening the 1940 campaign with an impressive display of power and deception.

Stagg, beginning his 51st year as a coach, put a courageous and smart eleven on the field, but was overpowered by the abundant talent of the fighting Irish.

A crowd of 30,000 spectators, thrilled to the first quarter scoring drive of Stagg's underdog machine, but it soon became evident that the Invades were overmatched.

Alternating a smooth passing attack directed by Dale Halbert with a tricky ground game, the Golden Tigers drove 60 yards against the Irish regulars in the opening period. Dwayne Mears scored the touchdown on a center plunge from the one and Emil Seifert place-kicked the point.

This lead stood up for the stubborn visitors until midway of the second quarter. Bob Saggau tossed a pass to Steve Juzwik for a 40-yard gain to the Pacific 25. After an incomplete pass big Milt Piepul drove to the seven and then Juzwik faked a reverse and skirted left end for the tally. Piepul tied the score with a perfect placement.

Wearing down the undermanned Stagg men, Notre Dame moved into high gear in the third, but muffed several other scoring opportunities. They easily clinched the decision in the fourth, scoring two touchdowns in one minute.

Merchants In Final Report On '40 Season

Harry Light Leads In Batting Average; Sumners Fielding

The Sedalia Merchants baseball club ended their season with exceptionally good records, especially in their percentage standing of the players. Harry Light, veteran second baseman, tops the list in batting average with a .394 while the fielding percentage honors go to Jake Sumners, first string catcher, with a .991.

The team's season record show they played in 41 games, winning 30 games and losing but eleven, while in 1939 the team played 42 games, winning 30 and losing 12. The 1940 percentage is .732 and 1939 .714, while the double season percentage under the management of Vincent Siegel is .723.

Officials of the organization, in a report for the year, show all bills contracted by the Merchants ball club in 1939 paid and the bills for this season paid, giving the team a "clean bill of sale." The players failed to show any profit for the year other than a clean season as to their financial standing.

Already the officials of the club have started a discussion as to the 1941 season. If prospects are good for a winning club and business conditions are on the upward trend, everything will be all well and good.

The presentation of the Smith-Cotton Tigers in their new football togs and the Smith-Cotton band in their new West Point uniforms were the high lights of the opening football game on the Liberty park gridiron Friday night.—The game was terrible, inasmuch as opposition was concerned.

The Tigers out-classed the visitors so bad the game ceased to even be interesting—but it was not because Bolivar didn't try—it was because they just don't have enough material to produce a good football eleven. Benson's Bengals were just too much for the visitors as one could very easily witness.

However we might just as well give Coach R. D. Gage, of the Bolivar high school credit for trying to produce a squad out of nineteen players who reported for practice. What material could one expect out of an enrollment of hardly fifty boys in the high school.

His players put everything in it they could. They played well for what experience they have had, and the fact the local team was more colorful in their new uniforms might have had an inferiority complex handicap. They had just about as many types of pants and sweaters on as could be assembled. —We might suggest Bolivar's merchants get behind the team and outfit the club as a football team should be—It might help to take away the losing complex which they displayed.

It is not getting away from the fact that Coach Joe Benson has assembled some good players. His players are attentive, they produce everything they have been taught, they play football just the way Sedalia fans like it—Win—Lose—Draw. Nobody has any complaints to make on the Tigers.

Just because they looked good against Bolivar does not mean they will have a walk away the rest of the season. The schedule is tough, plenty tough from here on out, and the Tigers can depend on a battle to take the remainder of the schedule—But lets hope they do.

It's St. Peters of Jefferson City next weekend; then M.M.A. of Mexico, Mo., followed by Hannibal, Eldorado Springs, Jefferson City high school, and Columbia.

We can imagine just what this week has in store for the team under the direction of Benson and his assistant Jimmy Obermiller—It won't be any play—just hard work.

When Ray French of Independence went out on the gridiron Friday night to take over the duties of referee, some of the players were wondering who "Whiskers" was. The boys chuckled several times during the game as French gently stroked his heavy reddish-brown beard as the boys lined up for play. When a play was completed the boys usually found French—whiskers—and all right in the midst of the pile.

When asked what the "idea" was, French explained he joined the Whisker club at Independence as part of the Old Settlers celebration. It is known as the Santa-Cali-Gon anniversary, otherwise the Santa Fe trail, the California trail and the Oregon trail. It's quite tricky I might add, —the name of the celebration.

Anyway French gave Independence's big three days October 14, 15 and 16 plenty of advertising before that crowd of more than 1,200 fans at the local football game. Even "Life's" camera man took a "shot" at French as he walked from the field after the game.

I wonder what the Missouri Tigers are thinking now since the Rolla School of Mines played St. Louis U. a scoreless tie Friday. Just think Missouri beat the St. Louis team 40 to 26, but St. Louis couldn't score on the Mines.

We might add that Maryville Teachers are slacking in their games in victory over Washington Saturday 7 to 6. Smith-Cotton has several graduates from the high school Tigers playing with this team.

Activity Queen Is Crowded

Miss Marjorie Rice, Green Ridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Rice, was crowned Activity Queen between halves of the Bolivar and Smith-Cotton high school football game Friday night. Miss Rice was the sophomore candidate for the honors, her class having the highest rating by votes won the annual football honors.

Jimmy Bellmer of the freshman class is seen at the extreme left, President Jack Kreissler of the Senior Council, in his band uniform and Cecil Swift standing between Kreissler and Miss Rice, was Miss Rice's escort. Little Miss Margaret Ann Handley standing in front carried the gold crown which was put in place on Miss Rice's head by President Kreissler. Miss Betty Lou Wood is standing just behind Miss Rice.

Kansas State Loses 6 to 7 To Colorado

Fifteen Yard Pass Wins For Colorado In Second Period

BY LOUDON KELLY

BOULDER, Colo., Oct., 5—(AP)—Colorado and Kansas State were all even in sensational scoring shots, but Colorado made good on the vital point after touchdown for a 7 to 6 football victory in a rain soaked stadium.

The Big Seven conference champions had a narrow squeak in collecting their first victory for their new coach, Frank Potts, as they twice had to stop Kansas State on the Colorado 10-yard line in the last period.

Second Period Score

Before the ball became too wet for good aim, Leo Stasica, Colorado's all-conference halfback from Rockford, Ill., flung a 15-yard forward pass to Vern Miller in the second period and Miller shook away from the Kansas State secondary for a 40-yard gallop to a touchdown. Right end John Pudlik placekicked the extra point.

After Miller had kicked 76 yards over the Kansas State goal in the third stanza, the Big Six team found its touchdown touch. Gene Fair and Chris Langvardt plucked off two first downs to the K-State 42.

Nichols Fails To Kick

Then Fair, 165-pound quarterback from Alden, Kas., zipped through a wide hole at his right tackle and traveled 58 yards to the goal line. Bill Nichols, chunky left guard, tried for the tying point but booted the saturated ball short and wide.

Fair was the key man in a 60-yard drive by Kansas State in the fourth quarter until he was carried off the field with a fractured right leg.

This threat faded on the Colorado 10-yard line when Kent Duwe, who replaced Fair, missed a first down by a football's length. Following the Colorado counter kick, the Kansans challenged again when Duwe's long pass was called good through interference on the enemy 10.

Again Colorado dug in to throw back the plains boys and when Duwe bobbled the subsequent punt, the decision was Colorado's.

Only a few minutes after the contest opened, Paul McClung, Colorado quarter, lateraled to fullback Ray Jenkins for a 42-yard scoring play, but the officials ruled C. U. was holding.

Sooners In Close Call

A Wobbly Start Of Season Against The Okla. Aggies 29-27

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

NORMAN, Okla., Oct. 5—(AP)—Oklahoma's Sooners, dumped from the ranks of the nation's gridiron greats at the fag end of 1939, made a wobbly start on their comeback climb here today, stumbling through to a 29 to 27 victory over an Oklahoma Aggie club that didn't know when it was whipped.

After scoring in every neriod to build up a 23-point lead, the Sooners suddenly fell apart in the final frame as the Aggies struck three times with touchdown thrusts that left 24,000 fans gasping for air.

A safety, set up by Johnny Martin's coffin corner kicking and scored by the Sooners when big Ralph Harris smacked Jimmy Reynolds' attempted punt clear out of the end zone in the last quarter, provided the Big Six team's margin of victory over their upstate foes from the Missouri Valley.

The Sooners moved into the final period with a margin of 20 to 6.

They added another touchdown early in the period when Jack Wurtz, Aggie back, got off the poor kick from behind this goal line which went out on the 17. It took the Sooners only four plays to score, Sophomore Boyd Bibb traveling the last four yards.

A pass interception by Bill Mattick gave Martin a chance to kick to the corner again and O. U. chalked up two more points on the safety. Then the Aggies went to work, aided by the bobbling Sooners who fumbled 10 times during the game.

After the next kickoff, Sophomore Huell Hamm dropped the ball on the O. U. 14 and Sonny Liles, who played a fine defensive game at guard for the Cowboys, recovered. Reynolds' pass to Lonnie Jones carried to the 1-yard mark and Jack Faubion plunged it over.

O. U. punted soon after the kickoff, leaving the Aggies on their own 42. Then Reynolds tossed a 15-yard pass to Jones, who scampered to the goal line without a hand touching him.

Jack Jacobs, whose passing and running, led the Sooners' earlier drives, fumbled on the Sooner 13 and again Liles recovered. A 9-yard pass, Reynolds to Holderman, carried to the 4, and on fourth down Faubion again went over, with only 5 seconds left to play.

Pitt Ahead At Outset-Doggedly Fights Off Aerial Maneuvers Of Missouri's Tigermen

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 5—(AP)—Once mighty Pitt splurged some of its lost prestige today by uncorking old time power to overcome passing Paul Christman and his Missouri Big Six champions 19-13 before 26,008 fans.

Ahead from the outset, Pitt doggedly fought off aerial maneuvers of the invaders while rolling up and down the gridiron for a net rushing gain of 215 yards to score in the first, third and fourth quarters.

Christman dazzled the crowd with a great passing show, hurling 29 of Missouri's 31 passes and completing 12 for gains of 210 yards, Pitt completed one of five passes for a gain of 18 yards.

Guard Ralph Fife's recovery of Tiger Carter's fumble on the 50 paved the way for the Panther's first marker, Fullback George Kracum, spearhead of Pitt's attack, plunged over from the four after a drive highlighting "Special Delivery" Edgar Jones' 26-yard end sweep. Quarterback Mike Sekela's place kick for point was blocked, but Jones picked up the pigskin and bounded over the goal.

A slashing 80-yard touchdown drive by Kracum, Jones and Bob Thurbon gave Pitt its second counter with Jones crossing the goal. The third Panther touchdown was set up by Kracum's interception of Christman's pass on his own 20 and run back to the 38. Another power drive took the pigskin into scoring position, with Bonelli, a substitute for Thurbon, going over from the two.

Unable to get inside Pitt's 45 during the opening period, Missouri came to life in the second. Sparked by Christman's passing, the Tigers drove to Pitt's six and Fullback Bill Cunningham plunged over for the score.

Christman opened another aerial barrage in the fourth, moving Missouri to the Pitt fifteen yard line with three completions that included a 46-yard shot to end Robert Steuber. Christman banged across to pay dirt from the one and Steuber kicked the point.

S-C Tigers Score 34-0 Win Over Bolivar

Local Players Are Substituted Freely Lots Of Team Work

The first game of the season for the Smith-Cotton Tigers on the home ground proved to be a practice affair with little competition from the Bolivar high school. The visitors bowed in defeat under a steam roller score of 34 to 0. The Bolivar players have their first game to win over a four-season period.

The Tigermen combined line plunges, spinner plays, lateral passes, and some nifty forward passes to score five times. Randall Scott and Jimmy Myers divided the honors in goal kicking.

Never were the Sedalians threatened by an attack by Bolivar and at no time were they endangered of being scored upon. In the last minute and a half of play Coach Joe Benson, got his substitute list down to the third team and ran the entire squad against Bolivar with the "youngsters" doing some nice playing against Bolivar.

Sedalia had no stars in the game, each boy doing his part as assigned, with the ball carrying being divided up between Myers, Scott, Leland Thomas, Anderson, and Swisher, as they took turns in playing in the back field.

Anderson, a newcomer carrying 125 pound of weight, proved to be a shifty back and did plenty of ground gaining for Smith-Cotton when called upon. Myers proved himself a good student at signal calling and at no time had his team mates at a point of misunderstanding.

Sedalia's touchdowns were made by Jimmy Anderson 2, Randall Scott 2; and Jimmy Myers. Myers kicked goal twice, Scott kicked one and a pass Leland Thomas to Billy McClain registered the other.

Maryville Teachers Upset Washington

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 5—(AP)— The Maryville (Mo.) Techers launched what they hope will be their third straight undefeated season today by upsetting Washington university, Missouri Valley conference champions, 7 to 6 in a non-conference tilt.

It was Maryville's twenty-second successive victory—including last year's surprise 9-7 win over Washington.

Both of today's touchdowns came in the second quarter, with the visitors ringing the bell first on a lateral pass, Schottel to Bennett, good for 36 yards. Then a place kick by Ralph Kurtright, who last season kicked a field goal to defeat the bears, again accounted for the margin of victory.

Washington scored a few moments later on a 27-yard pass from Bud Schwenk, all-conference halfback, to Lindow. Schwenk failed to convert YESTERDAY: Sue Mary keeps a date with Nick, hoping to find out more of the facts behind the strike. Nick talks glibly for a while, then, as Sue Mary questions him, becomes evasive. He asks about the office, Vera. She is going to a gambling place with Clark. Nick suggests they go, too.

NICK AND VERA SET A

CHAPTER XIX

THE Bird Cage was crowded and noisy. Sue Mary had been afraid she would be conspicuous, since she wasn't wearing a formal, but about her people moved wearing all types of clothes: women in sports dresses, afternoon frocks, and breath-taking evening gowns adorned with orchids, gardenias, and jewels. She touched her own simple blue crepe, one of those she had bought only a short time ago, and jangled the bracelet at her wrist.

This would have been fun, a thrilling adventure, if only she weren't ever conscious of the real reason that brought them there.

They stopped at the bar for a few moments while Nick looked the crowd over. Sue Mary's eyes opened wide at the crystal, the mirrors, the soft rose hangings, the modern chrome furniture, the amusing, sophisticated murals.

Then they walked through the other rooms where people crowded about tables and piles of money and chips were in evidence everywhere. It was in the last room—a smaller one with only a few people—that she saw Vera and Ross Clark, Jr.

Vera was beautiful. Regal, thought Sue Mary, remembering Babs' adjective. She wore a plain, heavy white jersey gown with a low-cut bodice that showed her tanned shoulders; her head was held high and her black braids worn like a coronet.

Any man would find it hard to ignore such beauty, Sue Mary admitted, but looking at young Clark she saw he was too far gone to see Vera or anyone else. He was swaying and the drink in his hand had spilled over the cuff of his coat. His face was flushed and his blond hair mussed. He was intent on the game and it was a simple matter for Vera to step back beside Nick.

They moved over to the window while Sue Mary turned to watch the play at the table. When she looked back she couldn't see them. She went over to the door and in the mirror saw them standing in the hall. Their voices came to her. She strained to listen.

"WELL, how much do you think he dropped?" Nick's voice was insistent.

"I haven't been able to keep count," Vera said a bit impatiently. "I'm not an adding machine. But my best guess is about $5000."

Nick whistled softly. "That much? I wonder how he's going to pay off."

Vera murmured something and then Nick asked, "Well, have you suggested anything to him?"

"Yes. He was pretty desperate when he dropped the third grand. We went in the bar for a drink and I mentioned casually that he could sell some of his real estate and make that much or more. And then I managed to plant the idea of how good some of his property would be for an airport site."

She laughed. "He wasn't too drunk to get the idea. He pointed out that since he was a member of the committee named to select the site he couldn't very well sell his own land. I had to be careful, but I said something about using a friend as a front and so on and so on. I could see he was thinking about it.

"And then we came back here. If he keeps on losing he'll have to do something. He owes everyone in town, they say."

"Well, keep up the good work," Nick told her. "Do you think Sue Mary gets the pitch on this?"

Sue Mary gripped her hot hands and turned back to the table. They mustn't know that she did understand. She must keep up this pretense of innocence.

She only wished she knew what to do. All the things she was learning spelled trouble, but how to use the information was still beyond her.

Obviously they meant to get young Ross Clark involved in the airport sale. By blackening his name they could have it reflect on old Governor Miller, for it was he who had appointed young Clark to the committee.

He and old Ross Clark had been law partners as young men, but he could never know that young Clark would be such a weak link in the chain. She could imagine the stories in the papers. The governor's appointee on the committee pulling a fast one to make money so that he could pay his gambling debts; using the taxpayers' money in a time of national crisis. That would certainly reflect on the old governor's suitability for a second term.

SHE read the papers carefully for the next few days and finally was rewarded. The airport site committee had met and announced that another site was being discussed: one that had fine possibilities. If they could agree on a price, an announcement would be made soon. Speed was an important factor, since the new site must be purchased and work started as soon as possible.

The paper also told of more trouble at the Smithson factory. Handbills had been distributed when the morning shift went on; handbills advising the workers that their labor representatives were double-crossing them. Urging them to demand more of a voice in the bargaining.

Fist fights had started and police had been called to augment the plant guards. Union and plant officials declared negotiating procedure could stand any investigating, and insisted satisfactory progress was being made. But a picket line appeared and the company indicated there might be a shut-down until peace could be restored.

Gull Plane officials made a statement that their schedule would be severely upset if materials didn't come through from the Smithson factory, and the papers pointed out that Gull Plane output was a vital factor in the new national defense program.

SUE MARY had a date with Joe that evening. "Well, it looks as though we're in for it," he told her grimly. "We all want to work. We all take our jobs seriously. We know the union won't let the company take advantage of these war-time emergencies, and we know we're working for the good of the country. Yet a certain bunch of half-wits are causing trouble enough to force the factory to close down.

"I was talking to some of the boys this noon, and none of us knows exactly why this business has started. And I took a look at that picket line. Some of the guys in it I swear I never saw before: long-haired guys, professional pickets. And by the way—I thought I saw that guy Nick."

"Nick—" Sue Mary's voice broke. "Nick—why should he be there? And I don't think you would be able to recognize him anyway. You only saw him once."

"That's right—once when I took you home, he was leaving with that Natalie person. But I got a look at him, and I'm sure this was the same guy.

"I wouldn't be surprised anyway. He's the kind that starts trouble like this. A super-American working for the underprivileged."

Stories in Stamps

THE invention of the sewing machine was one of United States' most important contributions to the industrial revolution. All of the nation's vast garment-making industries exist today because Elias Howe's machine took the manufacture of clothing from the home to the factory.

Howe is honored on the U. S. 5-cent stamp above, fourth of the inventors group of the Famous Americans series. The Howe stamp will be placed on first-day sale at Spencer, Mass., Oct. 14.

Howe did not invent the first sewing machine. Thomas Saint, an Englishman, built a working model in 1790. Barthelemy Thimonnier, a French tailor, used a machine to sew uniforms for the French army in 1830. But Howe's machine, completed and patented in 1846, was the first to become a real competitor of hand labor.

Years of discouragement and disappointment followed for Howe, before he was successful in introducing his invention and maintaining patent rights. Courts sustained the fundamental principles of his machine, and he is credited with the invention of the modern sewing machine.

Wheat And Corn Both In Advance

CHICAGO, Oct. 5—(AP)—The evernormal granary program's influence on domestic grain values came into full force again today as wheat prices shot up 1¼ to 1⅜ cent at one time, recovering much of the setback the market has suffered since seasonal highs were established Tuesday.

Comparatively moderate purchases were all that was necessary to produce the quick price upturn. Local dealers, previous "short" sellers and possibly some consuming interests, brokers said, contributed to the buying and December wheat rose to a level about 1½ cents over the government loan rate on No. 2 hard and red wheat here. Despite a late reaction due to profit taking and evening up of accounts, wheat closed ⅞ to 1⅜ higher than yesterday, December 82⅜ to 82½, May 81¾ to 81⅞.

Corn closed ½ to ⅝ higher, December 58⅝ to 58½, May 59⅞; oats ¼ to ½ up; soybeans ¼ to ½ higher; rye ½ to ⅝ up and lard 10 to 15 higher.

Stocks About Keep Their Balance

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(AP)—The stock market just about kept its balance today after a week of general improvement.

The list was subjected to further light profit taking at the start and leaders dipped fractions to around a point. A little buying appeared in the final hour, however, and closing gains and losses were almost evenly split.

The news picture provided scant stimulation for speculative spirits.

The Associated press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 45, but on the week was up .7 net. Indecisiveness of the day's proceedings was exemplified by the fact that of 480 issues traded 163 were up, 161 down and 156 unchanged.

Dealings were even smaller than last Saturday's, transfers for the two hours totaling 195,750 shares against 204,080 in the previous short session.

Among today's gainers of modest amounts were Youngstown Sheet, Crucible Steel Common and Preferred, Chrysler, United Aircraft, Douglas Aircraft, Eastern Air Lines, Pan American Airways, N. Y. Central, Great Northern, Western Union, American Telephone, Westinghouse, General Electric and Montgomery Ward. Thompson-Starrett Preferred jumped 2¼ on recapitalization plans involving elimination of back dividends on the senior stock.

A trifle under water were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Boeing, Kennecott, Du-Pone, American Smelting, Sears Roebuck and Santa Fe.

Commodities tilted higher. Bonds were narrowly irregular.

Wheat at Chicago was up ⅞ to 1⅜ cents a bushel and corn gained ½ to ⅝. Cotton advanced 5 to 25 cents a bale.

J. C. Penney, Retail Chain Head, Coming

Celebrated Merchant To Visit Local Store Monday, Also Will Address Clubs

If you should meet him on the street tomorrow, an affable looking man with white hair and mustache, his face tanned and his eyes lively, you might mentally catalogue J. C. Penney as a successful small town merchant. And you would, in a sense, be right. For Mr. Penney — the famous "shopkeeper" of 1,575 towns and cities from coast to coast — gained his firse experience in the retail field in community stores, and it is in the operation of such stores that the Penney Company has met its greatest success. In spite of the number of stores which bear his name, Mr. Penney takes personal pride and interest in each individual store. During his visit to Sedalia tomorrow he will be in the local Penney store as much as possible, mingling with employes, customers and friends.

Mr. Penney will address the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs while he is here.

Though Mr. Penney has risen through the years to the chairmanship of the board of directors of the celebrated organization which he founded, he is still a small town merchant. Though he now exerts a guiding influence over 1,575 stores, he still remains a storekeeper at heart. He is today the same vital enthusiast for service that he was in 1902 when he made his small beginning. He still fills with enthusiasm the men around him — the men who have made him "the man with a thousand partners." He still inspires the respect which makes him "the man with a million friends."

Born in Hamilton, Missouri, on September 16, 1875, Mr. Penney obtained his first job as a retail clerk in that town, at the age of 17. It was in 1902 that he opened the first store, under the name of "The Golden Rule," in Kemmerer, Wyoming — with a total capital of only $500. Shortly thereafter he devised a plan under which store managers were given an opportunty to share substantally in the profits of their individual operations, and opened several additional units in the adjacent territory. The organization prospered under this policy and has grown steadily until today, thirty-eight years after its founding, it numbers 1,575 stores.
